History and Function The Oklahoma Indian Affairs Commission (OIAC) was created by the Oklahoma Legislature in 1967 under the auspices of Governor Dewey Bartlett. A principal and initial function of the OIAC was to promote unity, purpose, and understanding between and among tribal populations, tribal offices, units of federal and state government(s), and the non-Indian citizens of the state. The liaison services of the OIAC provide for Oklahoma communication linkages and other networking capabilities that reach all of its resident Indian tribes.
